I've experienced great results by advertising in MichiganRealEstateToday.com

Selling homes is my business. I need to know that my advertising dollars are going to where they're the most effective. I've tried the pretty, expensive books and I've tried the small inexpensive once or twice a month booklets. I've tried Michigan Real Estate Today and found their consistency and distribution put my properties in front of the most potential buyers. They have a once a week publication distributed in 6 counties. They're a member of the National Association of Real Estate Publishers. Their web site MichiganRealEstateToday.com features a second world wide relocation web site...USAhomes.org that shows my listings to millions of visitors each week. I found this to be the most complete approach to my home sales and great results.
